LinkedIn reach plan: 11 Nov – 30 Nov 2026

Profile: Saktheeswaran S (personal). Replaces the earlier daily plan.

Why the old plan didn't work

- Generic tips and lists with AI posters look like ads. People scroll past.
- Posts went out by scheduler while Sakthi was offline, so nobody was there in the first hour to reply.
- Daily posting with low engagement splits the little reach there is.
- Sakthi's best posts before were personal: the Astra Nexora launch, "still learning at 21", "I run a full agency alone", a real Search Console breakdown.

New rules

1. 3 posts a week: Mon, Wed, Fri, 9:00–10:00 AM IST. Posted by Sakthi from the LinkedIn app (Typefully's free quota is used up until 1 Dec, and being online at posting time matters more).
2. Personal, opinion or real story. No generic tip lists.
3. Posters stay simple and real: bold text on a plain background, Sakthi's real photo, or real screenshots. No AI-generated people, fake dashboards or stock-style scenes.
4. Only real details. Anything in [brackets] must be replaced with what really happened. If it didn't happen, skip that post or that line.
5. No links in the post. 0–3 hashtags. Don't edit the post in the first hour.
6. No client brand names. "A clinic I work with" is fine. Never mention Guggulr.

The routine that drives reach (this matters more than the post)

When	What
15 min before posting	Leave 5 thoughtful comments (2–3 lines each, not "Great post") on posts by founders, marketers and business owners in India
Post time	Post, then stay on LinkedIn for 30–60 minutes
First hour	Reply to every comment, and end each reply with a question so the conversation continues
Every day (10–15 min)	10 more comments on others' posts + 10–20 connection requests to business owners, founders and marketers in Tamil Nadu / India

Reach starts with your own network. A small network means a small first audience, so the connection requests are not optional.

1 · Wed 11 Nov: I posted every day for 10 days

Format: simple text poster. Best with your real analytics screenshot on it.

Poster text:

- I posted every day for 10 days.
- Most posts got under 10 impressions.
- What went wrong: generic tips · posters that looked like ads · scheduled and disappeared · more posts, not better posts
- What I'm changing: 3 posts a week · real stories · I'll be here to reply
- (Optional: put your real LinkedIn analytics screenshot on the poster)
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

I posted on LinkedIn every day for 10 days.

Most of those posts got fewer than 10 impressions.

Not 10 likes. 10 people seeing it at all.

I'm a digital marketer. This is literally my job. So I sat down and looked at what went wrong:

1. I posted tips anyone could have written.
"5 free tools." "3 ways to reply to reviews." Useful, but you've seen them a hundred times.

2. My posters looked like ads.
People scroll past ads. So did everyone in my feed.

3. I scheduled posts and disappeared.
Nobody was there to reply when people did comment.

4. I posted more instead of posting better.

So I'm changing it:
→ 3 posts a week, not 7
→ Real stories and real opinions, not generic tips
→ I'll be here when the post goes live

Building in public means sharing the bad numbers too.

If you've grown on LinkedIn: what's the one thing that actually made a difference for you?

2 · Fri 13 Nov: It's a follow-up problem

Format: simple text poster.

Poster text:

- UNPOPULAR OPINION
- Most small businesses don't have a marketing problem.
- They have a follow-up problem.
- A 9 PM WhatsApp answered the next afternoon · A missed call nobody returns · A quote sent, then silence · "I'll think about it", and nobody asks again
- Fix the follow-up first. Then buy more traffic.
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

Unpopular opinion:

Most small businesses don't have a marketing problem.
They have a follow-up problem.

The enquiries are already coming in.

→ A WhatsApp message at 9 PM that gets a reply the next afternoon
→ A missed call nobody calls back
→ A quote sent, and then silence
→ "I'll think about it", and nobody ever asks again

By the time the business replies, the customer has already asked someone else.

Before you spend another rupee on ads, check this:
How long does it take you to reply to a new enquiry?

Under 5 minutes: you're winning more than you think.
Over an hour: you're paying for leads and handing them to your competitors.

Fix the follow-up first. Then buy more traffic.

Business owners, be honest: what's your average reply time?

3 · Mon 16 Nov: Starting an agency young

Format: a real photo of you at your desk or with your laptop. Fill every [bracket] with what really happened. Delete any line that isn't true for you.

Poster text (on your real photo):

- I started an agency at [your age].
- Here's what people told me.
- "[real comment 1]" · "[real comment 2]" · "[real comment 3]"
- I've stopped apologising for it.
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

I started Astra Nexora at [your age].

Here's what I heard in the first few months:

"[something someone actually said to you]"
"[something else someone actually said]"
"[a third real comment]"

Some of it hurt. Some of it was fair.

What I've learned since:

1. Business owners don't care how old you are. They care whether you pick up the phone and fix the problem.
2. [a real lesson from your work]
3. [a real lesson from your work]

I'm still learning. Still building. Still the youngest person in most meetings.

And I've stopped apologising for it.

If you started something young: what's the comment you still remember?

4 · Wed 18 Nov: What clients say vs what they mean

Format: simple text poster, a plain two-column table. No AI people.

Poster text:

- WHAT CLIENTS SAY vs WHAT THEY MEAN
- "Just a small change" → Redo the whole page
- "Can you make it pop?" → I'm not sure what I want, but not this
- "It's urgent" → I'll reply to your question in 4 days
- "Quick call?" → 45 minutes
- "Our budget is small" → Our budget is smaller than that
- "My nephew can do it cheaper" → I'll be back in 3 months

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

What clients say vs what they actually mean:

"Just a small change"
→ Redo the whole page

"Can you make it pop?"
→ I'm not sure what I want, but it's not this

"It's urgent"
→ I'll reply to your question in 4 days

"Can we jump on a quick call?"
→ 45 minutes

"Our budget is small"
→ Our budget is smaller than that

"My nephew can do it cheaper"
→ I'll be back in 3 months

To be fair, I've said at least three of these to my own vendors. 😅

5 · Fri 20 Nov: Before and after, a clinic's WhatsApp

Format: real screenshots (before / after), with patient names and numbers blurred. Use only numbers you can see in the real data. No clinic name.

Poster text (with your real before/after screenshots, names blurred):

- BEFORE → AFTER
- A clinic's WhatsApp enquiries
- Before: [real problem, e.g. replies after hours]
- After: [real change, e.g. instant reply + one booking sheet]
- No new ads. Just faster replies. (use this line only if it's true)
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

This is what a clinic's WhatsApp looked like before we fixed it.

[Describe the real "before": e.g. how many messages went unanswered, how long replies took, how bookings were tracked]

Patients were messaging. Nobody had time to reply on time.

What we changed:
→ [real change 1, e.g. an instant greeting message]
→ [real change 2, e.g. quick replies for timings and prices]
→ [real change 3, e.g. booking details going straight into one sheet]

What happened after [real time period]:
→ [real result, only if you have the number]
→ [real result]

No new ads. No bigger budget. Just replying faster and not losing track.

Sometimes the best marketing fix isn't marketing at all.

Clinic owners: how do you handle WhatsApp enquiries today?

6 · Mon 23 Nov: A real day in a one-person agency

Format: a real photo (desk, laptop, notebook, client call). Write your actual times and tasks.

- A REAL DAY IN A ONE-PERSON AGENCY
- [time] · [task] · [time] · [task] · [time] · [task] · [time] · [task]
- Mostly, it's [your honest one-line summary].
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

What a day in a one-person agency actually looks like:

[time] · [real task, e.g. replying to client WhatsApps]
[time] · [real task]
[time] · [real task]
[time] · [real task]
[time] · [real task]
[time] · [real task, e.g. finally working on my own marketing]

People think running an agency means strategy meetings and big ideas.

Mostly, it's [your honest one-line summary].

And I wouldn't trade it.

Solo founders: what does your day really look like?

7 · Wed 25 Nov: The biggest mistake I made in my first year

Format: simple text poster. Only post this with a real mistake.

Poster text:

- MY BIGGEST MISTAKE IN YEAR ONE
- [the mistake, in one line]
- What I do differently now: [real change] · [real change]
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

The biggest mistake I made in my first year of business:

[The mistake, in one line]

Here's what happened:
[2–4 short lines: the situation, what you did, what it cost you]

What I do differently now:
→ [real change]
→ [real change]

[One line on what it taught you]

What's a mistake that taught you more than any course?

8 · Fri 27 Nov: Discounts and Black Friday

Format: simple text poster.

Poster text:

- ~~50% OFF~~
- Every discount teaches your customers to wait.
- Give a reason to buy now, not a lower price:
- → A bonus, not a discount · → Something extra for loyal customers · → A real deadline
- Cut your price, and you cut your brand with it.
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

Black Friday is here, and every brand is shouting "50% OFF".

Here's my problem with it:

Every discount teaches your customers one thing:
"Wait. It'll get cheaper."

Then they stop buying at full price. And you need a bigger discount next time.

The businesses I respect most don't compete on price. They give a reason to buy now:
→ A bonus, not a discount
→ Something extra for loyal customers
→ A real deadline

Cut your price, and you cut your brand with it.

Are you running a Black Friday offer this year, or skipping it?

9 · Mon 30 Nov: 3 weeks later, the real numbers

Format: real analytics screenshot. Fill with real numbers on the day.

Poster text (with your real analytics screenshot):

- 3 WEEKS AGO: [real] impressions per post
- TODAY: [real] impressions per post
- What made the difference: [lesson 1] · [lesson 2] · [lesson 3]
- Sakthi · Founder, Astra Nexora

CAPTION (COPY-PASTE)

3 weeks ago I shared that my LinkedIn posts were getting fewer than 10 impressions.

Here's what happened after I changed how I post:

Before: [real impressions per post]
After: [real impressions per post]
Best post: [topic] · [real impressions]

What made the difference:
1. [real lesson]
2. [real lesson]
3. [real lesson]

What didn't:
→ [real lesson]

Thank you to everyone who commented with advice on that first post. [name a real tip that helped, if any]
